Girls Hoo Hack 2026

University of Virginia

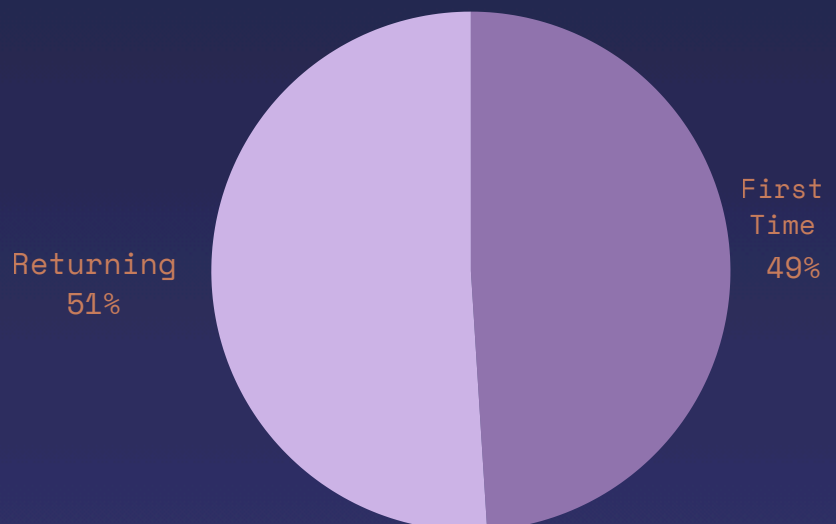

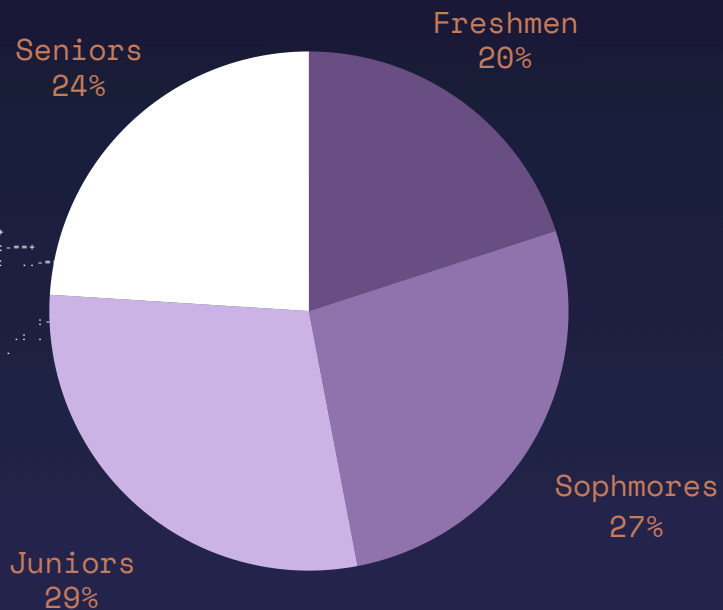

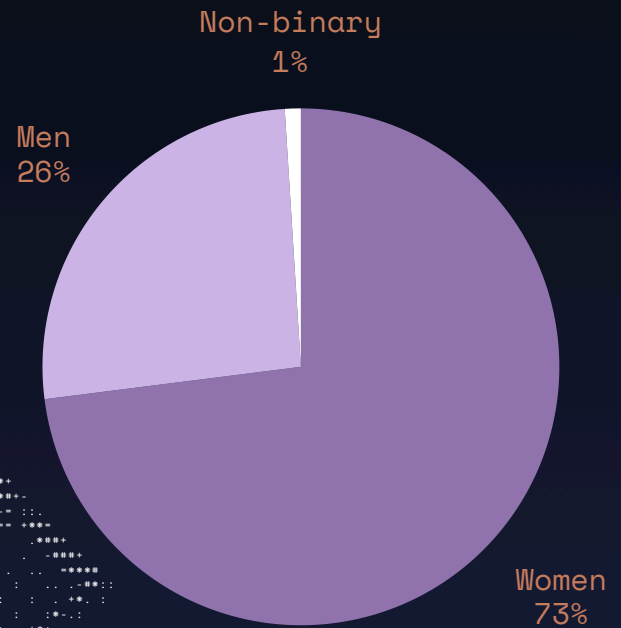

About Us

Girls Who Code at UVA is one of the largest College Loops in the country, founded in 2020 and now 300+ members strong. As part of the national nonprofit, our mission is to close the gender gap in tech and support women and allies in computing through community, education, and empowerment.

2025 GHH Demographics

200+ registrations from all different skill levels!

Event Details

Girls Hoo Hack 2026 will be held in person on October 17-18. This 48-hour hackathon provides an inclusive and empowering environment for women and allies of all skill levels to participate in:

- Coding
- Workshops
- Networking
- Impactful Projects

Why Sponsor?

Support our mission to empower women in tech and close the gender gap in STEM. Your sponsorship makes it possible to:

- Host an inclusive, hands-on hackathon where students develop skills and solve real problems
- Connect with top talent through networking, mentorship, and recruitment opportunities
- Shape the future of tech by investing in the next generation of innovators

Sponsorship Opportunities

In addition to financial support, we welcome industry professionals to help us foster a collaborative learning environment. Opportunities include:

- Mentorship & Judging – Have employees mentor teams or judge final projects
- Workshops – Lead a session on technical or professional topics
- Prize Donations – Contribute prizes or sponsor a custom prize category
